and intended to commit a bomb outrage. With the memory of the outrage at the Lyceum Theater at Barcelona fresh in their minds the people did not for an instant doubt that the rumor was true, and democratic leaders. Senators Gorman and in less time than it takes to tell it the whole Hill were anxious for a fusion, and urged audience was in a state of semi-panic. The women hastily donned their wraps, men grabbed their hats and overcoats and hurriedly departed from the building. The hasty egress of the audience attracted the attention of passersby, who were soon inattention of passersby, who were soon informed of the rumor that had driven them from the opera house, and these, in turn, further circulated the report, with such additions as their imaginations suggested.

In some quarters it was reported that a frightful explosion had occurred, and soon the streets in the vicinity of the opera house were packed with excited throngs of people clamoring for details of the affair.

The population of the whole city was intensely excited. The news speedily reached the governor of Madrid, and close upon its heels followed a denial.

The great fear and excitement caused by a mere rumor of an anarchist plot is evidence of the state of the people caused by the repeated anarchist outrages.

MRVA'S COSTLY TREACHERY.

He Was a Police Spy and Betrayed His Sweetheart's Brother.

PRAGUE, Hungary, Dec. 27.-The assas sination of Rudolph Mrva, who, it is alleged by many young Czechs, was a police spy or agent provacateur, and the arrests that Mrs. Lease's Charges Against Populists have followed have caused great excitement here, and it is evident that the authorities expect trouble. The police are confined in the barracks, ready to be dispatched instantly to the scene of any disturbance. The houses of many members of the Omladina, the secret society to which the assassins of Mrva belonged, have been searched, and more arrests are impending. ed, and more arrests are impending.

It is reported that a young woman to whom Mrvs had paid his addresses knew for a long time of his connection with the police, but she did not reveal the fact to any one. Mrva persuaded the young woman's brother to join the Omladina, and shortly after he became connected with the organization he was arrested.

His sister, with her knowledge of Mrva's real occupation, concluded that the latter had caused the incarceration of her brother, and she determined to have revenge on him. COLLEGE CHESS PLAYERS.

Beginning of the Annual Tournament at New York.

The annual intercollegiate chess tournament began yesterday at the Harvard School, New York, when Mr. William Freeland, the governor of the school, opened the proceedings with a speech, in which he explained the object of the contest to the great number of spectators present. The students of Columbia, Harvard, Yale and Princeton formed a league for the annual competition for a silver challenge cup, which was presented last year to the league, and which was won by Columbia on the first occasion. The players were scheduled in the following order yesterday:

Hymes (Columbia) vs. Hewins (Harvard). Ross (Yale) vs. Ewing (Princeton). Libaire (Columbia) vs. Roberts (Princeon). Skinner (Yale) vs. Spalding (Harvard).

Hewins relied upon a Queen's Flanchet-to defense against Hymes, who played rathto defense against Hymes, who played rather carelessly and lost a piece at his twenty-sixth move. The game ended in a draw, after forty-two moves, when Hymes had a perpetual check.

Ross opened with P-Q4, and very soon attacked his opponent, Ewing, who at first had to give up a pawn, then a piece, and finally the game, after forty moves.

Libaire opened with a King's Bishop gambit against Roberts. The latter introduced a novel defense, which at first netted him the exchange, later on a rook and a strong attack. Libaire resigned on his thirtieth move.

States, now that President Cleveland and the hired agents of Claus Spreckles have abandoned it as hopeless.

Let a man of high moral perceptions, enthusiastic imagination, and truly chivalric impulses once become convinced that a grievous wrong has been inflicted by this government upon a woman like Mrs. Dominis, and he will fly to her relief with passionate energy. He will fly all the quicker because everybody else hangs back. Such a man is the Hon. William McKendree Springer of Springfield, Ill.

Mr. Springer earnestly believes that it is the duty of Congress to put Liliuokalani back again upon the Hawalian throne, conquering and disarming the provisional government, if that is necessary, in order to accomplish the restoration of the queen. He believes it, for he has said so in print under his own honored signature. He will accept in behalf of Liliuokalani nothing less than the full hereditary rights of royalty. It is forcible restoration that Mr. Springer demands. "Anything short of this," he has declared, in words that were measured before they were written down on paper by his hand, "is a mockery of justice, is un. Holding these sentiments, it is creditable "Well, I suppose they have found it." The officer did not make any comment in reply to this exclamation. Burden turned his prisoner over to Policeman Ward, and repaired to the Bell residence, where he placed Mrs. Bell under arrest and took her to the station house. They were locked up in separate cells.

Appearing as a solitary champion, he will endeavor by his eloquence to win over that entire legislative body to the cause of the deposed and rejected queen. Congress has the authority to declare war in behalf of Liliuokalani, and Mr. Springer has the right to make the appeal to Congress; not, it is true, as chairman of the committee on banking and currency, but as a legislator and a man of heart.

That is why Mr. Springer is busy all this week. We do not share his views respecting Liliuokalani and her rights; but we honor his courage, his chivalry, and his unwaver-lag fidelity to the convictions of his mind.

HEAVY WEATHER ON THE OCEAR. Shipwrecked Sailors Brought

Tales of severe weather at sea were to by the captains of almost all the inc vessels at New York yesterday. Even staunch ocean-going steamers received harsh treatment at the hands of the sea and in some cases severe accidents were re ported.

officers then told of the hard battle the steamer had had with the waves. La Bretagne had a hard time getting up the bay. She spent three hours yesterday morning trying to keep her nose pourted toward the Battery. After the vessel was cleared at quarantine by Deputy Health Cfficer Tallmadge two tugs were engaged to turn her head toward the city. The wind was too strong, however, and finally she proceeded to the lower bay, where it was possible to take a wider sweep in which to of foundering, induced several of his mento go on board. Finally the entire crew returned and patched the lasky vessel wherever they could. It was found that a large amount of water had been shipped, and that the rudder was smashed. A juty rudder was then rigged up, and the vessel was turned toward Fort Monroe, where further repairs were made. The Ocean King then brought her to New York.

The steamer Neptuno, Capt. Fraser, from Montego bay December 17, arrived yesterday with five shipwrecked seamen on board. They were the crew of the schooner Milford of Rockland, Me., which was wrecked at Negril Point, Jamaira, on December 3. She was bound from Mobile to Kingston, laden with lumber. The Minford went ashore on a reef at night time in a heavy rain squall. Although she struck not more than 100 feet from the shore, the captain and crew could see nothing of it until daybreax, and were utterly at a loss to know where they were.

The cargo was all landed on the beach, and will be sold for account, of the underwriters. The vessel was stripped of masta, rigging, etc., which will be sold. The vessel itself is reported to be a total loss and uninsured. The captain remained bening to half of the congressional candidates, there would still be a doubt about their ability to elect all such tickets. It would disorganize the democratic party and at the same time attempt at further fusion. The democrats in Kansas, who last year consented to an indorsement of the populist electoral and state tickets, did so upon the urgent request and advice of national it. Ex-Secretary Whitney, Dan Lamont and other close friends of President Cleveland met a number of leading Kansas democrats in Washington, and urged them to come home and work for a combination of all the forces opposed to the republicans.

John A. Eaton of Winfield in a talk about John A. Eaton of Winfield in a talk about the Washington meeting said: "The democrats of Kansas went into that combination at the earnest request of Gorman, Brice, Whitney, Lamont and others. I was present and listened to their appeals. They said they represented President Cleveland and that he was anxious to have fusion brought about in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and other states where the bopulists orado and other states where the bopulists were strong. I was opposed to the plan, because I knew it would demoralize our party. But I came home with others and commenced to work up the combination. Senator Martin was the strongest worker for the very thing the President, through his trusted advisers, desired. The plan as outlined at Washington went through, and no sooner at Washington went through, and no sooner was the election over and President Cleveland inaugurated than, he commenced to punish the fusion democrats for carrying out his wishes. It seems to me ingratitude and a very poor way to build up and strengthen the democracy."

Senator Martin has received many very hard slaps from the administration and is very likely to drift into the populiet rapks very likely to drift into the populist ranks before another six months elapses. He is not in harmony with his party in Kansas and cannot hope for a re-election, except from the populists, and there is no certainty about them carrying a sufficient number of the legislative districts next year to elect the Senator. They have twenty-two Sena-tors who hold over and must secure sixty-one of the legislative districts. Based on the populist vote polled at the recent elec-tion they would elect thirty-five members.

Mrs. Mary E. Lease came to Topeka several days ago and reiterated her charge against the members of the populist state administration in which she said they were boodlers and thieves. She still retains her position as chairman of the state board of charities, and defies the governor to remove her. Mrs. Lease is decidedly opposed to further fusion with the democrats in Kansas, but if reports are true she did not entertain similar views a little over a year ago when, in company with Gen. Weaver, they made a tour through Alabama in the interest of a fusion between the Kolbites and the republicans. As the story goes, Mrs. Lease and Gen. Weaver met Chris. on the first floor of the city hall at 4 o'clock Magee of Pittsburg in Alabama, and there fixed up a bigger fusion deal than was ever thought of in Kansas. Magee had been sent down to Alabama to attange if and Mrs. Lease wrote the famous interview which appeared simulations interview which appeared simulations interview which appeared simulations in the New York World and Chicago Inter Ocean, denouncing the people of the south, paying special attention to the democratic party. Her interview was between the stirry the old sectional feeling between the stirry the old sectional feeling between the stirry the old sectional feeling between the stirry that the old sectional feeling of the south, paying special attention to the democratic party. Little Arthur Bell, the other child, who was ten days ago rescued from the supervision of his parents in an emaciated condition by neighbor John Allen, is still in the Astoria Hospital. The little fellow has improved wonderfully, and will be able to substantiate Agent Meyer's charge against his stepmother and father.

The feeling against the couple runs so high in Astoria that at a late hour last night Bell had not secured a beautiful and the super lip, inflicting a horrible wound. His screams of pain were heard and several men tried to break in his door, thinking he was committing suicide.

Hearing their blows, Scheswicks went headlong through the window sash with his stepmother and father.
